If you're a seafood lover looking for a dining experience that feels like an ocean adventure on a plate, The Hungry Cat delivers exactly that. As someone who's tasted their way through countless coastal menus, I was genuinely impressed by the culinary creativity and freshness that defines every dish here.

Start your meal with the Shooters—imagine briny oysters paired with bold companions like Blue Ice Vodka, Arette Blanco Tequila, or a smooth Honjoso Sake. Each shot is a tiny flavor bomb, ignited with lemon, chili salt, or a drop of Sriracha, giving your palate an electrifying welcome.

Next up, the Raw Bar is a celebration of the sea in its purest form. I tried a mix of oysters, cherrystone clams, and the stunning smoked green lip mussels. But it was the snow crab legs—succulent and chilled to perfection—that truly stole the show. For those wanting to sample a bit of everything, the Seafood Platters are a no-brainer.

Moving into the mains, the local halibut ceviche is a standout—citrusy, delicate, and bursting with freshness. I also loved the balance of textures in the fried oyster and pork belly buns; a bite that's rich, crispy, and tender all at once. The little gem and asparagus salads added a refreshing crunch, while the sweet corn chowder delivered warmth and depth.

Even the sides are worth their own spotlight. The fried artichokes and fingerlings were golden and addictive, and the grilled corn brought a smoky sweetness that complemented the seafood beautifully. Don't skip the grilled bread—perfect for soaking up every last drop.

Overall, The Hungry Cat doesn't just serve seafood—it elevates it. This is a menu curated with heart, heat, and a splash of ocean spirit.
